This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and a small, dark, irregular stain near the bottom center. The edges of the page are slightly irregular, and there is a faint, dark, curved mark near the bottom right corner.

THE DISASTER ON THE HUDSON.

The large steamboat Empire, of Troy, on her trip upward, Thursday night the 17th inst., was run into by the schooner Noah Brown, a small, stout-built craft, having a deck-load of lumber. The collision took place when the two vessels were nearly opposite Newburgh. There were two hundred and fifty passengers on board the steamboat. The steamboat settled at once in the water, and, in less than eight minutes from the time of the collision, sunk to her state room deck. At the present time of writing, twenty bodies have been found and four persons are known to be missing. It is believed that not more than twenty-five persons have lost their lives by this deplorable catastrophe.

The coroner's jury, at Newburgh have returned a verdict, which holds the pilot, Mr. Smith, responsible for the collision, and he has been arrested under process, issued from the U. S. District Court, and held to bail in the sum of ten thousand dollars, to take his trial for manslaughter. Mr. Drew, of the firm of Drew, Robinson & Co. promptly gave the required security.

A coroner's jury on the opposite side of the river, at Fishkill, is now engaged in investigating the causes which led to this accident, and until the verdict of this jury, which is composed of intelligent men, familiar with the navigation of the river—until this verdict is rendered, it is impossible to say who is really at fault. Meantime public opinion runs strongly against Mr. Smith, the pilot; though we hear from a reliable source, that at Fishkill and Newburgh, the opinion is gaining ground that the schooner's men are not entirely blameless.

It is impossible to describe the scene which followed the collision. Women rushed from the cabin and state rooms, half dressed and frantic with alarm. Men roused suddenly by the shock from their sleep, sprung upon deck; and many of them no sooner reached the deck than they jumped into the river. The boat was rapidly settling, and but for the prompt assistance rendered by the Rip Van Winkle, and the boats which put off from Newburgh, a hundred lives would have been lost. Three members of one family, the Ladds, from Stonington, Ct., were drowned. The mother is insane. But the incidents of this catastrophe have already been spread before the public in the columns of the daily press.

The Empire is now being raised, and will be brought to this city for repairs. When her cabins are clear of water, the loss of life will then be known. It is hoped and believed, however, that the worst is already known.

Our artist has given a correct and graphic view of the scene, at the moment of collision.

WINDUNNELS.
